Description

This outstanding performer carried the firepower of a destroyer, and served for more than 20 years. Conceived in 1944, it made its first flight on March 18, 1945.

Black Squadron (VA-55) introduced the A-1H to Korean combat on July 3, 1950, with its versatility, weight-lifting capacity (5,000 pounds on a carrier mission) and dive-bombing precision, the A-1H became the 37-months-war's most successful airplane. In Vietnam, Squadron VA-55 brought fame to the Skyraider when two A-1Hs knocked down an attacking MIG-17.

A-1H: Missions
