Description

Overview
The Spektrum AR620 air receiver is a full-range, 6-channel sport receiver with DSMX/DSM2 compatibility and a compact footprint that's streamlined to fit in a wide range of models.
More than just a simple box that connects your servos, the AR620 features an internal antenna design that delivers a whole new world of installation ease that includes a higher level of durability and convenience while maintaining superior full-range performance for your electric or engine-powered aircraft.
In addition, the AR620 has been integrated with fly-by-range telemetry that includes flight log and receiver battery pack voltage data. Access to telemetry is automatic when used with telemetry-capable Spektrum transmitters.* There's nothing to do in order to enjoy the peace of mind instantly knowing receiver battery voltage data.
An easy-to-use hard-pressed button. A large hard button is used to enter the bind mode. All contained Spektrum gives you more in a basic receiver. See the AR620, so that you can fly with the highest sense of confidence possible, and have more fun.
Not compatible with the TM1000 and TM1100 external telemetry module.
